DETAILED ACTION

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by the cap and desiccant combination of Taylor (1,050,706).

3. Claims 7-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by the cap and desiccant combination of Sharp (1,655,248).

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 2-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Taylor (1,050,706) in view of Moriya (4,287,995). The claims differ from the disclosure of Taylor ('706) in specifying that the cap is internally threaded and made of either plastic or metal. Moriya ('995) shows, in col. 3, line 20 through col. 5, line 7, that a cap can be internally threaded and made of either metal or plastic. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to structure the cap of Taylor ('706) so that it is internally threaded and made from either metal or plastic, in view of the showing of Moriya ('995), so that such cap can be used with many different kinds of containers.

6. Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sharp (1,655,248) in view of Gary et al. (2,548,780). The claim differs from the structure of Sharp ('248) in the porous material being paper. Gary et al. ('780) show that paper elements 10 and 11 are used for holding the bags 8 and 9, which contain the adsorbent material. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to utilize a paper material as the porous material in Sharp ('248) for holding the adsorbent material, in view of the showing of Gary et al. ('780), as any material which is compatible with the adsorbent would be usable.

7. The remaining references listed on both the PTO-1449 and the PTO-892 show art of interest.
